Outcomes evidence:

Activity Analysis are completed for every group planned with expected outcomes and evaluation after each term focusing on what went well and further recommendations and actions. Learning journals /tracking and/progress stars are all completed with individual families and children.

Group evaluations:

- Families value the open access sessions at Hyson Green Children's Centre with a consistently high regular attendance of local families. Singing, stories and rhymes incorporated within these sessions have had a positive impact on families whose first language is not English, as well as those for whom it is.
- Children made good progress in the targeted school readiness sessions; with quality assurance observations grading these as Good.
- Families within the Hyson Green area have advocated for more messy play opportunities for their children; every month the open access sessions have a messy play theme to provide further stimulus and new experiences for children and their families; with a range of top tips and take home sheets to encourage families to try activities at home, supporting learning .

- Parents and carers have welcomed the active part they play creating learning journeys and celebrating their child's achievements through WOW moments.
- All programmes/sessions which ran have some outcomes at the end of term (progress stars and children's development tracking)

Progress stars and tracking: April – March 2017

- All programmes/sessions have some outcomes at the end of term (progress stars and children's development tracking)
- 122 children were tracked
- Impact/progress has been evidenced with most children making some progress and/or early identification of need identified where applicable.
- 113 progress stars were completed

A priority for delivery from September 2017 will be the Freedom Programme, run in partnership with Women's Aid. A crèche will be provided alongside the programme.
