Identifying and supporting children, young people and adults with autism

National data suggests that 1 in 100 people are autistic although not all these people will have received a diagnosis of autism. Current data collection and collation makes it challenging to state accurately the number of children, young people (CYP) and adults with autism in Nottingham. Children and young people with higher level needs are more easily identified:

- 340 children/young people have an EHCP for autism, 40% of all EHCPs.
- Nottingham City Council's Autism Team are working with roughly 970 autistic CYP across city schools and supporting 86 year 6 pupils with transition to secondary school in September 2018.
