Health and Wellbeing: New Ways of Working

Background

Nottingham City Joint Health and Wellbeing Board (HWB) has been operating as a statutory Board since April 2013 with an inclusive membership of statutory officers and key partners from a wide range of sectors and organisations across Nottingham. The Board has good engagement and all members work hard to ensure Nottingham Citizens are at the heart of their work.

The core (statutory) functions for the Health and Wellbeing Board are to work collaboratively, across the membership to:

1. Determine the public health needs of the local population, producing a Joint Strategic Needs Assessment (JSNA);
2. Produce a Joint Health and Wellbeing Strategy (JHWS), which will advance the health and wellbeing of people in the area;
3. Encourage the integrated delivery (and commissioning) of health and social care;
4. Reduce health inequalities;
5. Have oversight of CCG commissioning plans;
6. Oversee planning against the Better Care Fund.

These functions continue to be the driving force of the Board though after nearly seven years, many local changes and recent transformation, it is timely to review and adjust the way in which the board conducts its core business to align with the current and future health and care ambitions for Nottingham.

Current context

The HWB has a statutory responsibility to produce a Joint Health and Wellbeing Strategy. The current strategy – Happier, Healthier Lives – is due to finish later this year and an evaluation of its impact is underway to inform the refresh of the strategy. Also in progress is the work to determine the key priorities of the newly established Nottingham City Integrated Care Partnership (ICP). Both the HWB and the ICP are aligned in their ambitions and the population they both serve, it will therefore be important to ensure that plans are developed together and linked to the overarching Integrated Care System's five-year strategy.

The HWB is also responsible for producing a Joint Strategic Needs Assessment. This is a detailed and extensive assessment of local need and is continuously under review, with a rolling programme to update information. In addition, the ICS has a population health management programme that provides detailed insight into the needs of the population using data to identify the impact of health and care needs, as well as the wider determinants that impact on health and wellbeing of the population. It is therefore important that the information available through the JSNA and PHM be used to inform both the work of the HWB and the ICP and enable the Board to better address areas of integration and health inequalities across the City.

Health and Wellbeing Board meetings

These take place in public every two months. The meetings are well attended and the agendas varied and covering a number of key priorities for the City. To maximise the impact and contribution of Board members and to take into account the new system structures and priorities, the content, outcomes, and core functions confirmed are:

Item	Summary of content	Discussion
JSNA	Progress from steering group, recommendations from recently completed chapters.	Arising from the recommendations – are there specific actions for Board members and/or need for a focused discussion at a future Board meeting?
JHWS	Progress from working group(s).	Is progress satisfactory, to identify specific actions for board member(s) and/or working group(s), to identify specific focus for future updates?
ICP	Progress from ICP Board.	Implications of ICP activity for Nottingham City, two-way feedback between Board and ICP.
Health Scrutiny Committee	Update on health scrutiny work programme and information about relevant reviews / recommendations. Ability for HWB to refer items for scrutiny to the Health Scrutiny Committee.	Relevant recommendations / implications from Scrutiny – to avoid duplication in work and identify opportunities for joint working. Identify items for referral to the Health Scrutiny Committee; receive feedback on work carried out and recommendations from the Committee.

The agenda will reflect the above core items, ensuring efficient use of time for discussion and enabling additional items considered as needed. Information sessions, to discuss relevant topics in more detail, will be held as and when needed, adjacent to Board meetings.

Role of Board Members

While Nottingham City Council hosts the Board, the HWB is a partnership board bringing local leaders from a range of different public and voluntary sector services to work together to collectively improve health and wellbeing of the population of Nottingham and reduce health inequalities. All Board members have a role in making it effective in terms of operation and outcomes. Board members have a dual role of representing their own organisation/sector on the Board and collectively with other Board members providing system leadership to work to improve health and wellbeing.

Governance

The HWB is a statutory Board, which has oversight of the JSNA steering group and the Commissioning and Procurement Sub-Committee. It is also aligned with expert groups, for example, on addressing alcohol harm, tobacco control and mental health. The Chair of the HWB is also a member of the Integrated Care System Board and a number of HWB members also attend the ICP executive group.

The HWB has core engagement across different parts of the health and Care system and is able to support the joint approaches to integration and reducing health inequalities across Nottingham.

The development of the ICP in Nottingham is an important consideration for the HWB as there is clear overlap between the remit of both. Improving integration and reducing health inequalities are core areas for the work of the HWB, and it will be important to clarify and define the different roles to ensure seamless and collaborative delivery. The HWB and ICP will be developing through a new Health and Wellbeing Strategy aligned to local provision for health and wellbeing.
