

HR Comments on DDM - Update of Nottingham City Council's Local Flood Risk Management Strategy

Management are proposing to review and update the Council's Local Flood Risk Strategy and in order to do, to use the services of a consultant.

Management should carefully consider the need for Consultants in light of the vacancy freeze implemented by CLT with immediate effect and consider internal resource options first.

The Council does not directly employ a Flood Risk Strategist, any time to create, evaluate and recruit to a post could directly impact timescales for the project therefore this is not a practical solution.

The proposal to engage a Consultant due to the specialist nature of the work is therefore supported.
